FORMER SLEUTH INTERROGATED

Film Deal Holds the Attention of the Committee.

RICKARD ALSO BEFORE PROBERS

Fight Promoter Testifies He Exhibited Films Whenever Possible, Though He Knew It Was Against the Law—Bunked by Muma and Associates, Who Had Failed to Deliver, Witness Says.

Washington, March 21.—Thomas G. Spellacy, former department of justice agent, mentioned by G. O. Holdridge as participating in the conference with Jap Muma regarding the fight film deal, was examined by the Daugherty committee.

Spellacy said he first talked with Muma concerning the Dempsey-Carpentier motion pictures in New York with Holdridge.

"What did he say about showing the pictures?" "He said that Daugherty told him it was against the law to transport the pictures, but that the law was made for Jack Johnson."

Spellacy said Muma told him that Daugherty had referred him to Urion and had taken Holdridge and himself to see Urion. "Muma said Daugherty had advised him to get some money if he got in on the picture deal," he said. "I'm not sure that Muma said Daugherty suggested a 50 per cent cut by Muma. I don't think he mentioned the amount—just that Daugherty suggested Muma ought to get a good cut."

"Did Muma tell you about conversations he had with McLean and Burns?" "Yes, he said something about telling McLean that he was headed for Atlanta penitentiary."

"And he got in touch with the attorney general?" "Yes, but the attorney general referred it to Burns."

"You remember what Muma said Burns said?" "Yes, Muma said that Burns remarked everybody seems to know what is going on around here but me."

Rickard Quizzed. Tex Rickard, fight promoter, told the committee that he "went out to get his money back" on the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films by showing them wherever possible, though he knew it was a violation of the law.

Rickard made this decision, he said, after he had been fined $1,000 for showing the pictures in New York to disabled soldiers. It was this $1,000 he wanted to get back.

He told the committee that Jap Muma promised to get a law passed in Washington making it legal to show fight films anywhere, but that Muma never said he had influence in the capital which would make it safe to exhibit the films in defiance of the law. He said he had been bunked by Muma and his associates, who had failed to "deliver the goods."

Rickard said that after they "got by" so easily in New York, he concluded they could do the same elsewhere. But, he added, he was "bunked" and the entire profits of the picture exhibition totaled only $10,000. Later in his testimony he said the profits totaled $36,056. Rickard said he never met Jesse Smith.

"You never said anything about Muma or Will Orr having influence with the attorney general?" "No."

Many Prosecutions Pending.

Washington, March 21.—Deputy Commissioner Nash told the senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau that there had been 149 prosecutions of bureau employees in the last three years for collusion with taxpayers, and that 597 cases of that kind now are pending. Mr. Nash also said there had been 88 "separations from the service" for dishonesty outside of Washington in the income tax unit during the period and 38 in Washington. Those dropped from the prohibition enforcement unit were placed by the witness at 310 outside of Washington and 12 in Washington.

Examination of Books Halted.

Washington, C. H., March 21.—President Mal Daugherty of the Midland National Bank here refused to permit John Phelon, special accountant sent from Washington, to examine the bank's books. Mal Daugherty, who is a brother of Attorney General Daugherty, claimed the senate committee was exceeding the scope of the audit ordered by the senate.

MERGER ANNOUNCED

Superpower Electric Lighting System the Object Sought.

New York, March 21.—Creation of a superpower electric lighting system in an area including part of Ohio, New York, the coal fields of Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania was effected by co-operation of nine individual electric light and power companies, according to announcement by H. Hobart Porter, president of the American Water-works and Electric company. The participating companies have a combined capital of $315,000,000, Porter said, and a generating capacity of 2,000,000 horsepower will result from the merger. The companies serve an area of 50,000 square miles, with a population of more than 7,250,000. Cities in the territory served include Cleveland, Akron, Canton and Warren, O.; Erie, Pittsburgh and Johnstown, Pa.

LEGION PERFECTS ARRANGEMENTS

Bergdoll, Draft Dodger, to Return to United States.

Washington, March 21.—The American Legion legislative headquarters here announced that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger, now in Germany, has definitely promised the American Legion he will return to the United States within a month to serve his sentence.

It was stated further that the Legion has guaranteed him personal safety upon his arrival in the United States to serve his sentence.

Garland W. Powell, director of the national Americanization committee of the legion, announced that he, acting for the legion, had "engineered the arrangement" whereby Bergdoll has agreed to return to this country. "The legion has undertaken to guarantee him safe delivery to the custody of the United States authorities and to protect him from mob violence," Powell said.

Powell did not reveal any details of the arrangement by which Bergdoll is to return, but said he made his announcement because it had been intimated that the legion had offered him certain inducements to return and he desired to make the legion's position clear.

"As a further consideration," Powell said, "we wish to know who were Bergdoll's accomplices in his escape. They are equally guilty with Bergdoll and should pay the penalty with him."

Herrick Explains.

Paris, March 21.—Ambassador Herrick said his recent operations on the bourse in which certain French papers say he profited $75,000 were in no sense speculative. Herrick explained he had picked out a site for a new American embassy building and it became a question of getting an option speedily. For this purpose, Herrick utilized his own funds while the franc was low. The Matin interpreted this as speculation in favor of the franc.

Anti-Saloon league leaders of Maryland demand a more rigid enforcement of prohibition in that state. They have appealed to President Coolidge.

FAVORS EARLY ADJOURNMENT

Coolidge Would Speed Up the Legislative Program.

BONUS BILL TO BE AMENDED

Member of Senate Finance Committee to Urge Full Cash Payment Option—Measure to Be Given Priority Over Tax Measure—First Deficiency Appropriation Bill Reported to the Senate.

Washington, March 21.—President Coolidge has planned conferences with house and senate leaders to map out a definite legislative program and a time for adjournment. By April 15 or 20 Coolidge believes the house will have passed all the appropriation bills and the immigration bill. Then will remain only agriculture and possibly railroad legislation, but it is regarded as doubtful whether the latter question will be acted on.

A series of three-day recesses for the house will be suggested, while the senate, which has passed practically no legislation, will be urged to get down to business.

Senator James Watson of Indiana, a Republican member of the senate finance committee, predicted that the bonus bill will be given priority in the committee over the tax measure.

Watson said it was likely such a proposition would be made to the committee within a day or two and work started on the bonus measure next week. Chairman Smoot has indicated he would favor such a move, saying it was necessary that the committee know how much revenue would be expended for the bonus before deciding definitely on tax schedules.

Amendment of the house bonus bill appears certain with both Republicans and Democrats of the senate committee advocating new proposals.

Chairman Reed Smoot introduced a proposed amendment to increase slightly the value of the life insurance policies provided for in the bill and make them payable only at death rather than at the end of 20 years, and to eliminate the borrowing feature of the insurance clause in the house measure.

Senator F. M. Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the committee, announced he would seek adoption of a full cash payment option, as was advocated by house Democrats.

The first deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $156,871,785, was reported by the senate appropriations committee. The committee added $2,174,000 to the bill as passed by the house. Most of the items added were for "judgments and audit claims." A $150,000 authorization was put in for purchase of an embassy in Paris.

SUES FOR $10,000

Woman Alleges Rough Treatment at Her Home by Dry Agents.

Toledo, March 21.—A suit for $10,000 alleged damages was filed in common pleas court here against Mayor C. C. Peck, Deputy Marshal Ben J. Licciardi and Deputy Ray Seibolt, all of Sylvan, Lucas county. Mrs. Mary Koprowski filed the action, asking damages as a result of alleged brutalities in a liquor raid on the Koprowski home last summer. She asserts that on June 4, 1923, the two agents forced their way into her home, searched the house and then "maliciously slapped, thumped, abused, struck and assaulted her" in an effort to gain information as to where liquor was hidden. She also charges that she was pushed against a sharp cornice and severely injured and then was taken to the county jail. As a result, she asserts, her health is completely broken and her nervous system shattered. She alleges that Mayor Peck illegally issued a search warrant in the case.

Comiskey is past 65 years of age and had not been in the best of health for some time.

Sale Yields Little.

The Hague, March 21.—The public sale of the furniture and other property used by the former German crown prince during his exile in Holland will put little money in Frederick William's pocket. The sale was held in the house occupied by the crown prince on the Island of Wieringen. The goods realized about $500.

Base Rejected.

Washington, March 21.—Plans of the navy department for a naval base at Alameda, Cal., were disapproved by the house naval committee.

PROBERS CALL WILL HAYS

Would Trace Source of Oil Stock Daugherty Had in 1922.

ACCOUNTANT AGAIN ON STAND

Attorney General Himself May Be Summoned by the Committee—Al Jennings Subpoenaed to Appear as Soon as Possible—Hearing Approaching the End, Senator Walsh Announces.

Washington, March 21.—Will H. Hays, former postmaster general, has been summoned by the senate committee probing the oil land leases.

The committee seeks the source of Sinclair oil stock which Attorney General Daugherty got in 1922, after it was revealed that Daugherty's first transaction was the sale of Sinclair stock. Records did not disclose when or where he bought it, Lewis D. Bond, federal trade commission accountant, testified.

This was the first step in an effort to run down a rumor that Daugherty and Will Hays, former chairman of the Republican national committee, were given 75,000 shares of Sinclair stock to help pay off a $1,000,000 deficit in the Republican party's 1920 campaign fund.

Bond was recalled to the stand when G. D. Wahlberg failed to appear on time. Wahlberg was to have been questioned concerning the identity of a "Mr. Hayes" he had mentioned as the recipient of Sinclair stock. Investigators at that time thought he referred to an employee in Sinclair's New York office. Wahlberg, it was learned, is in Havana.

Attorney General Daugherty himself may later be called before the committee. Walsh will await outcome of the testimony of Harry F. Sinclair and Will Hays to determine whether the attorney general should be required to appear.

"We are approaching the end," Walsh said after the hearing. "Unless some new necessity develops, I shall make a general survey next week of all the evidence thus far to determine if there are any loopholes. If I find none we will be ready to write out our report to the senate."

Al Jennings, the reformed bandit and "bad man" of the west, has been subpoenaed to appear before the committee as soon as possible. Jennings was an intimate friend of the late Jake Hamon and is alleged to know something of the rumored vote offer at the last Republican convention.

ELECTRIC FIRMS SUED

Conspiracy to Control Price of Lamps Charged by Government.

Cleveland, March 21.—Suits were filed by the government in federal court here against the General Electric company, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and Westinghouse Lamp company. The government charges a conspiracy between the three companies to control the price of electric lamps.

The petition sets forth that practically all the electric lamp business of the United States in 1921 was controlled by the three companies with the exception of 2.8 per cent conducted by independents. Trade in lamps by the General Electric company amounts to $50,000,000 or more a year, it is charged in the petition.

That the system of contracts existing between the General Electric company and the several parties engaged in the lamp business be adjudged an unlawful combination and conspiracy is asked by the government.

British Fliers to Start Tuesday.

London, March 21.—Great Britain's effort to beat the United States in the flight around the world will start Tuesday from Calshot with three planes piloted by A. S. C. MacLaren, squadron commander, and Pilots W. N. Plenderleith and Sergeant Andrews. The British fliers, if successful, should cross the air trail of the American aviators at Delhi, India, from where the British airmen will continue along the coast to Alaska, thence to New Foundland and either direct to Ireland or via the Azores to Portugal.

The Assyrian sailed from New York for Glasgow with 4,127 cases of 25-year-old Scotch whisky valued at $15,000. The owners of the liquor, who had sought to sell legally to drug stores, hospitals and similar agencies, could not obtain a profitable price for the liquor.

McFADDEN TO PRESS BILL

Proposes Important Amendments to National Banking Laws.

Washington, March 21.—Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, proposes important legislation amending the national banking laws in a bill which he will press for early consideration.

The proposed legislation would make 16 amendments in the laws now governing the operations of more than 8,000 national banks. Chairman McFadden will seek to reach a solution of the prolonged controversy over branch banking. His bill will amend existing law so as to permit national banks to establish branches in states where state banks are allowed this privilege, and to prohibit, after the passage of the proposed act, the extension of statewide branch banking in the federal reserve system. Mr. McFadden says he regards the "teller window" stations, which the comptroller of currency has announced national banks may open when duly authorized, as equivalent to branches, and therefore barred under the recent decision handed down by the supreme court on the branch bank question.

Under the McFadden bill national banks would be permitted to engage in buying and selling investment bonds. To enable them to meet the increasingly keen competition from state banks the one-year limit which now applies to loans on real estate would be permitted to loan up to one-half of their time deposits on these loans, instead of only one-third as at present. This amendment is designed to enlarge the scope of national banking activities in this field and Mr. McFadden declares it to be one of the most important changes he proposes.

China's Action Rouses Soviets.

Moscow, March 21.—China's repudiation of the signature of Foreign Minister Wang on the Sino-Russian recognition agreement, signed recently at Peking, is unjustifiable and likely to lead to the most serious consequences, for which China will be responsible, it was declared in official soviet circles. The agreement provided for recognition of the soviet government by China.

ALL SHOULD VOTE

Those Who Fail to Do So Are Slackers in Private Life.

"If the statements in the newspapers that state and federal officials are conniving with bootleggers to break the prohibition law are true, these officers should be summarily dismissed and prosecutions brought against them, because they have violated not only the law of the land, but have betrayed their government, and reenacted the part of Benedict Arnold," says J. A. White in a statement issued today. White is Republican candidate for nomination for governor.

"A citizen who fails to vote at the primary and help nominate good men for office is as much a slacker in private life as one who neglected his duty during the world war. Only about 35% of the voters vote at a primary election. Those who stay at home have little cause to complain of the character of government they secure. We must understand that we live in a democracy or a government by the people. By its very nature, democratic government implies a high sense of personal responsibility on the part of the people. The complement of enforcement of law is obedience to law, and the willingness with which obedience responds to enforcement is the acid test of a true democracy."

MINERS HELP

Starving German Children Aided by Ohio Labor Organizations.

A contribution of $200 and an appeal to miners' locals to get behind the campaign for relief of German children is the result of consideration of reports concerning starvation in Germany by a convention of miners of the eighth district of Ohio, including Jefferson, Harrison and Belmont counties.

The action at the convention will be taken back to locals by representatives and a general response is anticipated from the miners, who are following the example set by various other labor organizations in the state.

In arriving at their conclusion those attending the convention considered the general information available on the subject but especially the reports made by Americans, among them officers in the American armies during the war. Their initial contribution will provide one meal a day for a month to 400 German children.

An indorsement for the drive by the Cincinnati Federation of Labor also by Columbus Federation of Labor and by a number of locals thruout the state, further indicate the attitude of labor in Ohio towards the campaign.

The Malthusian Doctrine.

This was a theory held by Rev. T. R. Malthus, who was born in 1766 and died in 1834. He held that population tends to multiply faster than its means of subsistence can be made to do, and that when this occurs, the lower or weaker classes must suffer from lack of food; that unless an increase of population be checked by prudential restraint poverty is inevitable, and that the multiplying of the population will be checked by poverty, vice or some other cause of suffering.

AMUSEMENTS

"Held to Answer" a Metro screen production of Peter Clark MacFarlane's story of the same title, was presented at the Met theater yesterday.

MacFarlane has turned out one of his finest stories in "Held to Answer" and it has been brought to the screen in a capable manner. There are numberless highly dramatic scenes, several genuine thrills and the cast could hardly be improved upon.

The plot concerns a young actor who gives up the stage to become a minister of the gospel. He goes to a small city and is followed by one of his former actress friends. The minister falls in love with the daughter of one of his parishioners and, thru jealousy, the actress determines to have the clergyman ousted from his church.

This she almost accomplishes by inducing the girl's brother to steal, the minister being accused of the crime. How he conducts his own defense and the outcome of the trial makes for thrilling drama and it has all been decidedly well done in "Held to Answer."

House Peters is seen to great advantage in the role of the minister. Grace Carlyle does the best work of her career as the actress and James Morrison has been well cast as the erring brother. Evelyn Brent, who plays the role of the heroine, is not only good to look at but demonstrates unusual ability. Other characters are well taken care of by "Bull" Montana, John Sainpolis and Lydia Knott.

We think you'll like "Held to Answer" because it holds the interest in a story of folks that we meet in from beginning to end and because it every day life.

Old Theater Hewn Out of Rocky Soil of Neopolis

The shrine of the greatness of Syracuse is perhaps the Greek theater hewn out of the rock soil of Neopolis, and open, through more than twenty-two centuries, to sun and wind which have weathered the old gray stone seats. In the solitude of a still-remembered past, flowers are pushing their way up along the edges of the stone, and wild thyme makes all things fragrant. It was in this spot that Aeschylus saw his plays performed before critical splendor-loving audiences—Aeschylus, rebelling at the fact that man is bound to suffer in seeking freedom.

There Pindar read some of his odes, rejoicing in the powers of man, delighting in man's activity, his triumphs, his fame, and endeavoring to quicken in the audience the sense of human power; for Pindar's life was a stately pageant where honor and dignities abounded, and men could achieve lasting renown. Among the audiences of the Fourth century B. C. sat Plato, ever considering the soul, love, immortality, kinship with the divine; the thinker, acutely conscious of the transitory, centering his thoughts upon the idea of the eternal.

A hundred years after Plato Theocritus was there among the Syracusans who had inherited the great memories. . . the old discussions about the inexorable laws of fate, the beauty of the present world, and the problems of human happiness. What did he conclude regarding the great drama of mortal existence? What impressed his imagination and directed his genius to the writing of his lyrics? For he, too, was a philosopher about life, writing not from idleness, nor indifference to problems, but from an artist's acquaintance with his birthplace where he had probably spent his boyhood before he went to Cos to study, and where he lived, it is supposed, about eight years before he departed to Egypt.—Martha Hale Shackford, in the North American Review.

Argon From the Air

The atmosphere contains a tolerably large percentage of argon. It has therefore been found difficult to extract it industrially in a sufficiently pure state to be used in incandescent lamps except at too great a cost. This is because it occupies an intermediate state between oxygen and nitrogen with regard to liquefaction, so that when the attempt is made to isolate it by fractional compression or distillation it always passes over accompanied by the two former gases.

The problem was, however, solved a short time ago in the following manner: There is made use of an apparatus in which there is eliminated the nitrogen of the atmosphere by means of liquid air. The residue consists of a liquid composed of oxygen and argon from which the argon is easily extracted by burning the mixture with the required proportion of hydrogen. In this way, by the most careful analysis, it has been found easy to obtain gaseous mixtures containing 75 to 80 per cent of argon and only 1 to 2 per cent of nitrogen, together with the oxygen.

Only One Guess

He wore a long-tailed coat, a frock tie and a stiff hat that marked him as a small-town aristocrat of the old school. At the hotel he strolled around the lobby with an air of ownership that was very impressive. But in a three-days' stay not a nickel had been scattered among the help and the word had spread fast that the colonel was not all that he seemed to be.

He had just had his "boots" shined, and as the boy brushed him off, he remarked:
"George, what would you think if I gave you fifty cents for this shine?"
George answered right up:
"Ah would think you wanted forty cents change, huh."

Waiting for a Ciew

Harold was allowed to invite Jack to tea the other evening. Jack had a cold in the head, but that did not prevent the boys from playing hide and seek.

Jack having concealed himself behind the parental chair, Harold came in to hunt for him, but calmly sat down to read his "comic" paper.

"Aren't you playing?" asked father.
"Oh, yes," replied Harold, "but I'm not hunting. I'm going to wait till Jack sniffs."

Had More of Them

Little Sam, while taking tea with a neighbor, was given a piece of bread and butter. He said "Thank you" very politely.

"That's right, Sammy," said the hostess. "I like to hear little boys say 'Thank you.'"

"Well," said Sammy, "if you want to hear me say it again you might put some jam on it."

The Other Fellow

An Irishman came home one night with a black eye, broken nose and split lip. "Tim Sullivan done it," he told his wife, as she began to bathe it. "Shame on you," she replied, "being licked by a hard-drinking cockroach like Tim! Why, he—"

"Nuff said. But don't spake evil of the dead."—Boys' Magazine.

ALL STAR MINSTRELS.

A welcome feature of "Lasses" White's All Star minstrels which is now on its fourth annual tour and is to be seen at the Grand opera house on Friday, March 21, is its vocal contingent which is of a high order unusual in minstrelsy. As in past seasons this organization has the benefit of the services of "Nate" Talbot whose knowledge as harmony arranger makes it certain that all numbers in which music figures will be presented in most acceptable manner. As in the past the Blackville quartet of which Mr. Talbot is a member continues to be one of the hits of the bill. Associated with Mr. Talbot are Herman Schultz, Norman Brown and "Jimmie" McDonald. Other important singers are Grover Schepp, Frank Long, Bob Manpin, Maxwell Gordon, Bob Wingate Sam Pucket and the Tetrazinni of minstrels—George Milner. The orchestra, which is comprised wholly of soloists is under the direction of the celebrated minstrel leader, Frank Bauer.

THE TWO EXTREMES.

A miser and spendthrift lived side by side. And each with the other oftentimes vied. The miser to spend the least that he could. While the spendthrift lavished still more than he should.

And as time went on the miser gained wealth, But lost all his friends and even his health. And the spendthrift's wealth grew less and less, While the miser scoffed at his horrible mess.

But when old age crept on the twain, Each found his days more fraught with pain. Each felt regret at the course he'd run. And wished he's lived as the other had done.

For the joys of life came not from gold, Nor the pace you went before you're old. But if you'd see your old age blest. Heed this: The middle course in life is best.

TWO LARGE CANNERIES
H. M. Crites Will Build One in This City and One in Tuscola, Ill.

In Last Five Years Has Built Seven Big Plants in Illinois and Ohio—Owns Twenty Large Farms and is Largest Packer of Sweet Corn in the World.

H. M. Crites, of this city, will add two more large canning plants to his present holdings, one to be located in Circleville and one in Tuscola, Illinois.

Mr. Crites will leave for Tuscola on April first, where he has secured a ten acre tract within the city limits of Tuscola of which at least one-half of said tract will be covered by the new plant.

Tuscola is located in the best corn belt in Illinois, with three large trunk line railroads serving the same.

Ample acreage has already been secured and a ten car capacity railroad siding put in this week and much of the building material has already been ordered in. This makes four large canning plants which Mr. Crites has erected in Illinois in the past five years and two in Ohio. He requires ten thousand acres of land on which to grow his corn requirements for the combined plants. He has also within the last few months purchased two more large farms near Circleville, now making twenty large farms owned and operated by him near and adjoining Circleville, totaling five thousand acres of the best, fertile, level farming land that can be found anywhere.

By owning this large acreage he is now working out plans to start the erection of a large sweet corn and pea canning plant in Circleville during this fall and spring of 1925.

Mr. Crites is known throughout as being the largest packer of sweet corn in the world, selling his entire output to the jobbers in every state in the Union. With the able assistance of his two sons, Meinhart and George, and his organization of employees that has been with him for many years combined with Mr. Crites' large capital, puts him in position not to be excelled by anyone.

Circleville can be congratulated on having such a man as Mr. Crites a resident and manufacturer of our city, no undertaking or accommodations was ever too large for him.

The funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the Morris U. B. church. Rev. George Weir will officiate. Interment in Maple Hill cemetery, Stoutsville.

EIGHT YEARS WONDERFUL ACHIEVEMENT.
It will soon be the eighth anniversary of the introduction to the world of Delco-Light products.

The March issue of the American Magazine pays a fine tribute to the founder of Delco-Light, Mr. Charles F. Kettering, an Ohio farmer boy born and reared near Loudonville, Ohio. It took a real genius to, in eight years develop the largest plant in the world for the building of farm electric plants in twenty-five different styles and sizes and in addition adding a full line of automatic pumps for both shallow and deep wells. Also the development of the safest electric washing machine in the world. Now comes Delco-Light's greatest achievement, Frigidaire, the mechanical refrigerator for the home and ice cream dispensary.

Delco-Light products were first introduced in Pickaway county in May, 1916. As our former dealer, Mr. John K. Graham, of Circleville, Ohio, has been called to his home in Muskingum county on account of the death of his father, it is necessary that we secure new representation in Pickaway county. It may be that you are the fellow for the job. All you need is to be honest, reliable, willing to work and own at least a Ford. A salary and commission will be paid to the one who can satisfactorily represent us.

SPRING TONIC.

The "shut in season" is followed up by many ailments. The Vaporized Mineral Fume treatments are invaluable as a spring tonic. They afford relief from torpid livers, congestions and inflammations—stimulate the circulation, purify the blood and eliminate the poison from the system.

They are very effective as a treatment for colds. The poison is quickly eliminated thru the pores of the skin, the results are obtained below blood heat temperature—no danger of bad effects on leaving the Sanatorium soon after a treatment.

Bee-Stinging Used to "Treat" Rheumatism

Despite the great advances made in medical science and the discovery of sanctioned remedies for nearly every disease there still prevails to an alarming extent the use of old-fashioned remedies, some bordering on the superstitious. This is brought home nearly every day to the physicians at the board of health building in New York.

"One of the queerest cases of the kind that has come to my attention," said one of the doctors on duty there, "was that of a man who limped in here the other day, suffering from rheumatism in the legs. One of these members was almost stiff and it was covered with blisters. I asked him how he got them."

"I was stung by bees," he replied. Astonished, I asked him to explain, and he went on:

"You see, I was recommended to a place down on Staten island where they raised bees just for the purpose. They told me there that it was an old remedy that had been used for many years by country folk."

"I seemed to get some relief for a time, whether it was that the stinging had the effect of a narcotic or really was an antidote. But what I want to know is if you would advise me to continue this treatment."

"Later, I made inquiries and learned that this bee-stinging had really been practiced to a considerable extent in the country and still continues in some sections."

"Incidentally, I heard of an old superstition that is rather odd. It was that whenever a death occurred in a family that kept beehives the owner would have to sell the bees; otherwise, if they found it out themselves they would fly away in anger because they were not informed."—New York Mail.

Wasted Effort

Baby was going on at a great rate and the father of the family finally demanded to know what the youngster was crying about.

"He wants his own way," responded the child's mother.

"Eh?"

"And he can't have it."

"Yes, he might as well get that out of his head at the start," said the old man, grumpy.

Mr. and Mrs. Tug Grigsby were killed in a powder explosion at Lost Creek, Ky. Mr. Grigsby is said to have attempted to open a can of explosives. Their child, nearby, was hurried through a window, but escaped with slight injuries.

SAVING HABIT

Money Should First be Earned—Work Best Tonic for Children.

The practice of saving, which is systematically encouraged in the public schools of Kansas City, is bearing beautiful fruit. With almost one-half of the more than 60,000 children in the schools putting money into the school banking system the thrift habit is taking hold at a time when it will be most effective as a factor in the future lives of these children.

Almost the only reason for indigent age is improvident youth or middle life. To save something against the time when there may be nothing from which to save, or even on which to live, would seem to be a fundamental of common prudence. Yet how little has been done in the lives of most persons now grown to impress the importance of saving. How little is known by those of small means about making intelligent investment!

But saving is not the only benefit that comes from the banking system installed in the public schools. The presumption is that the children put into the bank a part of their earnings. It should be the rule—not without exception, of course—that the money saved first should be earned. It is much easier to teach the value of money when it has been worked for. And work in itself is one of the best tonics for children, one of the best character builders.—Kansas City Star.

SHORTS AND MIDLINGS

Ohio ranks sixth in the production of farm crops in the United States. Texas is first, Iowa second, Illinois third, California fourth and North Carolina fifth.

Says Sam: I've always heard that the corn field is the best germination tester, but this year it's likely to be pretty expensive.

A third of its fertilizing value was lost by manure exposed in flat piles in an open yard from January to April at the Ohio Experiment Station last year. The loss in nitrogen was 35.6 per cent; phosphorus, 22.5 per cent; and potash 51 per cent.

Clover seed of doubtful origin will probably prove of doubtful value.

Orchardists who want high production often keep bees in the orchard. Ninety per cent of the pollination is done by bees.

When the sun comes in the doctor goes out.—Proverbs of England.

WHALES MIGRATING FROM SOUTH AFRICAN WATERS

Unrestricted Industry Will Perish Unless Something Is Done to Regulate It Soon.

There is grave danger that the whale in South African waters will soon be a rarity. So profitable has the industry proved during the past few years and so many the whaling stations that have sprung up on the South African coast, that the species are now migrating further south and east.

The chief of the Natal fisheries department, H. W. B. Marley, states that unless something is done to regulate whaling, the industry there must perish. Unrestricted whaling has been the rule in South African waters, and the consequence is that every year the humpback and inshore feeding whales are becoming scarcer.

The humpback, in particular, has been a prize much sought after in the past by the vessels of the South African whaling fleet, for they are comparatively easily caught and offer a good return in the amount of oil yield. On the other hand, the sperm or cachalot whale has not been hunted in the past to the same extent, as this species keeps generally well away from the land.

Speaking of the whaling industry during the past few years, Mr. Marley stated that it had enjoyed a long period of prosperity. However, during the war, the Natal production of oil and fertilizers had little or no sale, and as a result large stocks of oil were definitely held up. But a demand for raw oil allowed the companies to realize their stocks on profitable terms, and the recovery was gradually improving, so that there was every prospect of good prices being realized for some time to come.

Hawaiian Returns Rich After 30 Years' Absence

A story of riches made in Alaska during an absence of nearly thirty years was revealed recently when Thomas Emslie returned to Honolulu to live the remainder of his life in the city of his birth and enjoy his fortune of $200,000. He brought with him his Eskimo wife and three children.

Emslie left Hawaii on a whaling ship in 1895 and was penniless. He remained aboard the vessel three years, during which he had learned much about navigation and the fishing and fur business. His next venture was to purchase a schooner with borrowed money and his success enabled him to purchase larger boats from time to time.

As his prosperity continued he decided to remain permanently in Alaska, but recently he had an attack of "island fever," a longing to return to the place of his birth, and, with his family, came to Hawaii. He plans to build a home and live a life of ease.

Headache Is Pretext for Double Wedding

Admittedly cured of a severe headache which he set out to relieve, it was said, by a short ride in the country, Donald Anson, twenty-five years old, of Syracuse, N. Y., and his sister, Leona, nineteen, who was to act as chaffeur for her ailing brother, went home to inform their parents of a race to Marathon, N. Y., and their return with a new son-in-law and daughter-in-law.

Leaving their home, the brother and sister stopped a few blocks away and were joined by Reginald Moe, who married Miss Anson. The three then went to Marathon, where Miss Agnes Smith joined them. They speeded to Cortland, where Rev. Dr. Benjamin Rowe was aroused and performed the second ceremony.

The newlyweds then returned to tell the astonished parents of the reason for their long absence.

Shah of Persia Seeks Yank as City Manager

The shah of Persia wants a city manager. A request for some wide-awake American to go to Persia to act as manager for the city of Teheran has been received at Wichita, Kan., by John C. Stutz, secretary of the International City Managers association, who was recently in Wichita to confer with Earl C. Elliott, city manager of Wichita and president of the international association.

In his request the shah said he would pay a good salary to the right man.

"The shah has determined on the city manager form of government as the best possible," said Mr. Stutz.

Sunken German Fleet to Be Raised to the Surface

The proud German high sea fleet which lies at the bottom of the North sea in Scapa Flow will be raised to the surface. A Queensboro firm has entered into a contract with the admiralty to bring 68 German warships back to the light of day. The ships are undamaged, but under the Washington treaty they must go to the scrap heap and that is where the British government intends to send them.

CONFIDENCE

The most beautiful of all human relationships are based on CONFIDENCE. Love is based on confidence, friendship is based on confidence, happy marriages are based on confidence; and so, confidence is the highest aim a business institution can achieve, because it introduces into the processes of buying and selling, something of the unselfish quality of those sacred human relationships that are untouched and uncontaminated by money. This store never wants to be guilty of such bad taste as to claim perfection, but it makes no secret of its ambition to foster and deserve at all times the confidence of its customers.

There is no higher succrss than TO BE BELIEVED IN!
